1. Prior to June 1953 the Epitoanyagipari Epitesi Vallalat (Construction Enterprise of the Building Materials Industry) was subordinate to the Ministry of Building Materials Industry and had nationwide jurisdiction only over the building materials factories, all of which were under the Ministry of Building Materials Industry. The construction enterprise was charged with factory enlargement, alterations, repairs, and construction of new buildings.

2. While it was subordinate to the Ministry of Building Materials Industry, the construction enterprise neither cooperated nor had any connection with any of the Hungarian building trusts. Although the enterprise continued to operate in the building materials industry after the merger of the Ministry of Building Materials Industry with the Ministry of Constructions, the eventual plan called for its incorporation into one of the building trusts of the Ministry of Constructions.

3. The enterprise was in no way responsible for building air-raid shelters, military barracks, or buildings for the armaments industry. It did, however, build air-raid shelters in the course of its routine work, in accordance with the general regulations governing the construction of factory buildings.

4. Although the enterprise did have its own planning section, it generally received plans of factory buildings from the Ipari Epulet Tervezo Iroda (Planning Office for Industrial Buildings), which was controlled by the Ministry of Constructions. The department of that ministry which is directly responsible for all construction planning and which controls the many planning offices is Department No. 7 (7 Foosztaly). Building plans for the Ministry of Defense are prepared by the A.E.T.I.(?), a separate planning office located on Krisztina Korut, Budapest, but it is planned to incorporate this planning office into the planning department of the Ministry of Constructions.

5. The following personalities of the Construction Enterprise of the Building Materials Industry are known:
